

Join the CCLC's
Hundred Hearts Campaign
to help finish Heartwood Lodge, and we'll send you a heart ornament every year for five years!

Ornaments will be handcrafted and donated by local artisans.
The first one, made of stained glass, is made by Mark Wren.

Mark lives in Robbinston, Maine, where he has been designing stained glass artwork for twenty years. He and his wife, Arlene, run Wrenovations, and together they sell Mark's one-of-a-kind pieces and custom installations.
Mark and Arlene are generously donating one hundred heart ornaments like the ones above to this campaign. Learn more about them at: www.wrenovations.com.

In future years, heart ornaments will be made from beads, paper, clay, and fabric. All will be made and donated by local artisans who support the CCLC and Heartwood Lodge.

The Project:

Heartwood Lodge consists of two new buildings on the CCLC campus.

Building #1: The Residence

The residence is a two-story building with thirteen dorm rooms, including two handicap accessible rooms, one studio apartment (intended for visiting artists or others seeking solitude for work or study), a common room, a kitchenette, laundry facilities, and multiple outdoor spaces such as patios, gardens, and an outdoor classroom.

Building #2: The Classrooms

The classroom building is a one-story building that provides our high school program with a large classroom and teachers' office. It also adds a multi-purpose, large function room for other classes, workshops, or gatherings, a spacious and welcoming lobby, and a beautiful outdoor patio.

We are so close!

The Cobscook Community Learning Center has raised over $2.5 million to build both buildings that make up Heartwood Lodge. We are close to closing the campaign!

Introducing the
Hundred Hearts Campaign

One hundred people pledging just $200/year for five years brings in $100,000.

Participation is limited to the first hundred donors!

Deadline: October 1, 2014

With your support, we can put these buildings to work for Downeast Maine.

The Impact:

Heartwood Lodge allows us to offer multi-day programs, overnight summer camps, and a new host of courses linked with our burgeoning partnerships with institutions such as University of New England, University of Maine, and others. Everything from weekend courses in health and fitness or the arts to credit-bearing courses with colleges and universities will come to life within the walls of Heartwood Lodge. Additionally, the Lodge allows the center to market itself as a retreat and conference center, which changes the profile of our revenue significantly by making us more self-sufficient.

Heartwood Lodge creates employment for local people from the construction phases right through long-term operations. Both buildings incorporate local materials at every opportunity and are built by local people. It will take personnel to maintain and operate the buildings, as well as to teach the programs made possible by the increased space. The project has also allowed the center to switch all campus heating to a wood-fired system.
This wood will be supplied by local wood harvesters.

Heartwood Lodge will put CCLC programs in reach for a greater number of people, many of whom live right here in the area. It can be challenging for even our neighbors in Eastport or Indian Township to make multiple trips to the CCLC to participate in classes. Overnight stays in the Lodge will be priced very affordably. It brings the CCLC closer for everyone.
